Anhydro derivatives of nucleosides as potential antiviral agents. The synthesis of 4',3'-unsaturated purine derivatives is described, with a view to developing new and improved antiviral agents. The synthesis, structure, and antiviral activity of 3',3-trans-anhydronucleoside analogues is discussed. The results obtained are for most part comparable to those obtained with 3',3'-cis- and 3',3'-trans-anhydroladenine. Both the 4',3'-unsaturated and the 4',3'-cis-anhydronucleosides are more potent than the parent nucleoside analogues. This invention relates to flow control valves and, more particularly, to flow control valves having seatable sealing components which provide a continuous seal throughout the service life of the valve. It is well known in the art that to provide a reliable flow control valve, having a long service life, that the seat components and sealing elements must be maintained in a continuous sealing position throughout the service life of the valve. The maintenance of a continuous seal requires substantial forces to insure against any relaxation of the sealing surfaces, and to maintain the necessary separation to prevent liquid from passing through the valve at the seal locations. The forces required to maintain a reliable

A bevy of TV shows from the last few weeks, each seemingly offering a fresh take on a familiar premise. Stars, we're told, rise to the top of their respective genres, but the varied take on this old story is nonetheless intriguing. Let's have a look at this week's most interesting shows. 15. Perception As scripted by Jonathan Glazer and starring John Malkovich, Sam Neill, Paddy Considine and Rose Byrne, Perception weaves a sophisticated tale of lies, betrayals and intrigue that unfolds with a rich, layered style. Considered among the year's best new shows, Perception pulled off an audacious feat, surrounding a mystery that pits the lives of four couples against each other. 14. Blood & Oil This intriguing love story, about a slick oil tycoon in a form-fitting velvet suit, won Brian Tucker the Emmy for Lead Actor in a Comedy Series. Cassidy Freeman plays the role of Amanda, a Texas beauty who finds herself married to an oil tycoon named Jack (played by Eric Bana) while she becomes entangled in a futureplanning scheme with a man named Joe (played by Daniel Sunjata). As through the eyes of Joe, we see the oil executive discuss the importance of having "big balls" at a dinner-party chat with friends. 13. The Night Of Crime-noir series The Night Of sweeps us into the mind of a young man who may or may not 754eb5d184
